

February 8, 2010

Students to produce USA games

Available on ESPN360.com and ESPN Full Court

Athletic Communications

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. - Mass Communication students from Middle Tennessee State University will step back on the national stage of collegiate athletics when they produce and direct live telecasts of the Middle Tennessee-South Alabama men's and women's basketball games on Feb. 20 and 21, respectively.

Both games will air on ESPN360.com and ESPN Full Court with the men's game set for 7 PM CST on Feb. 20 and the women's game Feb. 21 at 2 PM CST. It will be the final regular season home game for both programs.

Chip Walters, the Voice of the Blue Raiders, will move from his radio seat to handle play-by-play for the television broadcast. Andy Herzer, a former college basketball coach for 16 years, will provide color analysis for both games.

The Mass Communication students produced Blue Raider football games earlier this year against FIU and Arkansas State that appeared on ESPN360.com and ESPN GamePlan.

Middle Tennessee students will produce the upcoming game against South Alabama and make it available on ESPN360.com and ESPN Full Court. ()

Printed on May 23, 2012

Original URL: <http://www.goblueraiders.com/content.cfm/id/43736>